Q: Can I bind sub nodes using qbinding? I have a root node that has a sub node Can I bind a sub node without using qexpression or qtext manually? I mean, is there any another way to do this? Like using qbinding or qbindValue? A: No. If there were a way to do that, it would have been documented in the documentation for QDeclarativeText which basically seems to be an internal reimplement of QText, but without a lot of the functionality of QText. So you would need to manually write or use a QDeclarativeBinding as the documentation for QDeclarativeBinding says: QDeclarativeBinding provides a generic way for bindings to be created which can be used anywhere where QDeclarativeBinding::setSource is called.

Q: Localize a static string I need to localize a static string in the context of a windows mobile 6.5 silverlight application. The application is in german (german MSIL, not the Microsoft.NET Framework) and the string that I need to localize is "NETWORK_NAME" which is translated to "Netzwerk_Name". This is part of an.NET control that we use. In the source code I have the static string defined as "NETWORK_NAME", but in a resource I need to localize it is called "Netzwerk_Name". Is it possible to localize that static string? I tried using "Resources.NETWORK_NAME", "Resources.Netzwerk_Name", but those seem to not be valid keys. A: It's possible to define static resource keys in your project.
