StopDistractions helps you to block access to distracting websites. You can personalize the list of blocked sites and you can set a countdown timer. You can choose between 3 layouts: single window, fixed window or tabbed window. Some features: Stop Distractions actually works by switching the internet connection over to a low bandwidth IP (a proxy) that allows only a certain set of websites to be shown. This works by identifying the websites that the browser most likely will navigate to based on the entered address and the list of websites that are blocked is customized in accordance with this. This is the overview: There is a list of websites, personalized for the user. The list is the filter that you used in combination with the new IP address of your internet provider. If you tap on a website listed, it will be blocked within 2 seconds. Tap again to get back to the normal browsing. In the list, you can also see if the date of the last visit to the site was blocked. If you tap on a website listed, you will see a countdown timer. If the timer is running, you will be automatically redirected to a settings page. When you return, the site is no longer blocked. But wait, there's more. You can also have it start with a countdown timer, but your countdown is reset to zero whenever you click on a website. It can also be configured in the settings to show detailed information on a website that is blocked. If you tap on a website, a detailed information about the site will be shown. You can also tap on the timer, if you have a timer on the site, to see more information about that site. In the settings, you can change the color of the name of a website that is blocked. You can also change the color of the name of a website that is currently on the list. If you tap on a specific website, you can add it to the list again. You can also see if you are currently blocked. In a more clear list. You can also see what websites are blocking you and when the last time was that site was blocked. One thing that is missing is the possibility to add a website to the list without being blocked. With this, you can create a list that has a list of "should-be-visited-sites".
