The Elder Scrolls Online Elden Ring is an action RPG that takes place in the Lands Between, an area between Oblivion and Skyrim. The Lands Between is an area where the races of Oblivion and Skyrim mingle, and a place the gods have left behind. The Northern Nations, such as Erul Bay and Orsinium, are also located here. The main character, who was once a powerful and prideful warrior, returns from an ill-fated journey and notices his body has changed into the form of a horned animal. He now inhabits the body of a beast in the lands between, and is on the road to rise and become a lord of his own. In the course of his journey, the player can encounter both regular enemies and formidable opponents that are in fact guardians of the world. The player will be able to call upon the power of the lands between in order to defend themselves. The Elder Scrolls Online TENGU / TARNISHED The Main Character Embark on a new adventure with this new character, who is in the process of rising up. What's new in Elden Ring:

>Maryland Democrats and Republican lawmakers are negotiating to deal with a series of state tax cuts which expire Monday as part of the budget negotiations, and the proposal being discussed in both chambers of the General Assembly includes an upgrade to the Earned Income Tax Credit program. Gov. Larry Hogan (D), who campaigned on raising the state's state and local sales tax from 6 percent to 7 percent, and reducing or eliminating the property tax tax credit his ally Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller (D-Calvert) and Del. Scott Pelker (D-Baltimore) crafted would take effect only if the legislature manages to agree to a budget by April 20, said there are other options being pushed by some legislators. "I really think that's part of the best way to structure this," Hogan said last week. "I think if there is truly full-on open-ended negotiations, then say if it really has a chance, the Earned Income tax credit seems like the almost the perfect place to start it and lower the sales tax and then get everyone on the same page for a revenue plan." While the main focus of the budget negotiations has been on finding ways to reduce, or even eliminate, billions of dollars in revenue cuts that could have a huge impact on Maryland's budget and education system, many legislators are also pushing for more permanent tax breaks to benefit low-income residents. A bipartisan group of lawmakers, including Miller, introduced a bill in Annapolis this week that would place a cap on property taxes, similar to what some states have, by eliminating an exemption from real estate transfer taxation for primary residences. "We've included that as an idea for consideration," said Senator James K. (Jay) Elgie (D-Montgomery), who is one of the leaders of the effort. "We have not discussed what the cost would be, or what revenue levels that would generate." The bill also would eliminate a tax on motor fuel that in some instances can be used to power an electric car. Sen. James T. Brochin (D-Baltimore County), who has added language to Elgie's bill that would create a so-called "carrot" incentive to encourage people who buy electric cars to sign up for the program, which can be used to obtain breaks on electric bills. Brochin said an incentive program for electric car use would
