However, Rise, Tarnished will change that by streamlining the experience and giving it a more streamlined side, while focusing on the character and story. A Mythical World Created by Tarnished Studio The Lands Between was formed from the souls of humans and monsters, and it is a place where the unpredictable occurs. ♦ The Lands Between The Lands Between is a vast land where the players will encounter many different situations. It is a land where things will happen, where things will not happen, a place where one of the three lords will fall, where one of the three lords will rise. ♦ Story of the Lands Between There are various stories behind the Lands Between that have been sealed by the three lords, whose wills have also become a source of power. When a player enters this story, they will meet a story where the three lords meet again. Each lord has their own story, and they all exist in the world. ♦ A variety of characters Along with the main characters you will meet, there are over seventy characters that have gathered to create an atmosphere where players will experience unexpected things. They are all brilliant characters and have a story of their own. ♦ Choose Your Own Adventure The game combines turn-based and action RPG elements to create a game where players can freely move around freely and act without restrictions. For example, a player can randomly encounter a monster in battle, or chat with a character they have just run into, or go to an inn or city to eat or play. ♦ A Variety of Graphics and an Alluring World The game's graphics are built from the ground up to be faithful to

What's new:

Oh, dang. I forgot to remove my playtest comments... When I combine a hydrogren and a felinoid into a tank, the Felinoid deals massive bleed damage and is too dangerous to control for more than one turn at a time, so I have to kill the Felyne. I'm running fifteen felyne tanks, so the trading time is huge. I'm currently using a felyne equivalent to the Fel Crusade, so her die is replaced with something like "lucifelina-wrath" and she's called "wrathful". My Felyne Warcaster is using Genesis Burst, which lets her change out parts of her die to make new effects. One version lets her add three bleed damage to the one damage the "wrathful" die would otherwise deal. My felynes and felinies might get a shared pet tank after all, now that I can't summon the Felinine into my unit. Support group and individual psychotherapy for Type A coronary heart disease patients. This study assessed the effectiveness of two treatments in one patient: a pharmaco-behavioral support group and a regular cognitive-behavioral support group. The 83 patients were randomized to one of three groups: medication only, support group only, or medication and group. One medication group demonstrated a slight increase in behavioral compliance, but a nonsignificant increase in cessation of smoking. Cardiopulmonary tests decreased significantly over the year of the study only for the support group group. Questionnaires measuring reappraisal, tension reduction, and distress management techniques increased significantly in the support group group. In the doctor's rating of coronary occlusive risk, a nonsignificant trend favored the medication and support group group. A doctoral candidate's examination of the characteristics of patient compliance showed that the patients in the support group group were considerably less likely than the other patient groups to try to control the situation. The pharmacological treatment group and the support group group differed markedly in patterns of change over the year. Overall, the regression analyses were consistent with this conclusion., zoomed in 2x ... i still don't like the characters, but the artwork here is very zen and peaceful. feels like a nice touch to hear the wind and listen for the birds ... odd truth: there's way less city noise in rural towns because people don't use

42 F.3d 1408 NOTICE: Ninth Circuit Rule 36-3 provides that dispositions other than opinions or orders designated for publication are not precedential and should not be cited except when relevant under the doctrines of law of the case, res judicata, or collateral estoppel. UNITED STATES of America, Plaintiff-Appellee, v. Gustavo VELASQUEZ, Defendant-Appellant. No. 93-50424, United States Court of Appeals, Ninth Circuit. Argued and Submitted Oct. 4, 1994. Decided Nov. 1, 1994. Before: GOODWIN, HUG and RYMER, Circuit Judges. 1 MEMORANDUM* 2 Gustavo Velasquez appeals his jury conviction for possession of marijuana with intent to distribute in violation of 21 U.S.C. Sec. 841(a)(1). The sole issue on appeal is whether the district court erred in refusing to instruct the jury on appellant's theory of defense that he lacked the mental state necessary to convict him of possession with intent to distribute. We have jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. Sec. 1291, and we affirm. 3 In the course of instructing the jury, the district court omitted a definition of "intent to distribute" in the context of this case. That omission was not harmless error. United States v. Stauffer, 922 F.2d 508, 513 (9th Cir.1990); United States v. Hernandez, 876 F.2d 757, 760 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 493 U.S. 863 (1989). 4 Both parties agree that the district court's instructions on intent were erroneous, and that the correct definition of "intent to distribute" is well settled in this circuit
