What's new:

New Year Girls Soundtrack is the eighth studio album by the American pop duo Chairlift, released on January 16, 2018, through JDE. It was announced in November 2017 that Chairlift and backing musician, Woods had begun recording what was intended to be a solo album, which would continue in the same artist-led, collaborative and production-led style as the duo's previous full-length with co-producer Justin Raisen. When JDE announced Chairlift as returning artists for the 2018 Grammy Awards, it was confirmed that Woods would collaborate with the duo on a new album, resulting in the project becoming a completely collaborative effort by two artists. New Year Girls Soundtrack consists of self-produced, all-new tracks co-produced by Chairlift and Woods. Unlike the duo's previous efforts, the album does not feature non-vocal tracks, and would mark the final studio album recorded by both artists. The duo aimed to stick to "high-fidelity sounds", reminiscent of their self-titled debut, third album as Chairlift (2012) and the Chairlift/Woods duo project (2015). Despite initial reservations, the album received generally positive reviews from critics, who praised its production and consistency. It was a commercial success, peaking at number one on Billboard 200, and receiving platinum certification, both by the Recording Industry Association of America and the Music Canada. A music video was released for the promotional single "Talk Talk" in October 2018, with an official video for the last single, "College Summer", released November 12. Artwork A promotional photograph of Jared and Sylvia Fronterhouse in a bathtub was released by IAC to promote the album on January 14, 2018. The album cover was revealed in an iconic style, framed with striped curtains and printed with a portrait of the band as teenagers in 1994. A poster art was released to promote the album on January 15, similar to the previous, co-produced Chairlift / Woods album Chairlift / Woods (2017). Music Style and influences According to the duo, some of the influences can be traced back to the music of Chairlift's self-titled debut, considered the band's breakout and point of validation, and Chairlift / Woods (2015), considered to be Chairlift and Woods' follow-up album. Music critics have indicated that the album can be traced back to Chairlift's third album Chairlift (2012). "Stakes" and "Talk Talk"
