

Portable DiffPDF is a software tool developed in order to help users easily conduct side-by-side comparisons of two multipage PDF documents. This is the portable version of DiffPDF, which means that you can easily bypass the installation process. As a result, the Windows registry is not going to be affected and upon the utility's removal, there will be no leftover files. Aside from that, you can easily use Portable DiffPDF on any computer you have access to, by simply placing the program files to a portable storage unit, such as a USB flash drive, and clicking the executable. The interface has a user-friendly design and it contains two tabs which enable you to quickly find all the options available, as well as two panels in which you can view the uploaded files. In addition to that, it is accessible to all types of people, regardless of their previous experience with computers. This software application enables you to exclude margins from documents, view logs and show or hide zones. There are three methods of comparison, namely from visual, character and word standpoints. It is also possible to zoom in and out, switch which pages to view, show tooltips in the main window, change the highlighting colors and opacity, as well as save the comparison to the hard drive, in PDF, BMP, GIF, JPG, MNG, TIF or XPM formats. With comprehensive Help contents, a user-friendly interface, good response time, minimal usage of CPU and RAM, Portable DiffPDF proves to be an efficient piece of software when it comes to comparing two PDF documents. As the ever-increasing use of portable electronic devices, such as, for example, laptop computers, pagers, personal digital assistants, etc., has increased, the need for such devices to be readily accessible has also increased. Access to a user of such devices typically is obtained by a wireless communication system (i.e., via the "airwaves") between a central network location and the user, such as, for example, a cellular telephone network. The network components typically referred to as the switch or central network location provide channel connections to a user device (e.g., cellular telephone) and other, similarly connected, user devices in the system. It has been recognized that as the access frequency and/or the number of user devices connected to the system increase, the complexity of the switching functions that the central network location performs increase as well. The effort associated with providing the necessary switching functions has become cost
