Course Description. The increasing environmental impact of the electrical/electronics industry will include, for example, the effects of hazardous chemicals at or near their production sites on human health and the environment. Effective management and safety procedures involving electrical components and equipment will need to be developed. This course covers (1) the conditions and causes of electrical problems; (2) safe practices for the control and protection of electrical systems; (3) electrical systems and equipment in relation to safety and environmental issues; (4) electrical theory and its applications; and (5) industrial electrical safety.

Electronic component design. The increasing complexity of electronic circuits requires the use of component design models to specify the functional and physical performance of electronic circuits. To do this: (1) the electronic circuit designer must learn to specify the function and physical design requirements of electronic circuit components, (2) must learn the theory of electronic components and circuits, and (3) must design electronic components of sufficient complexity and, therefore, quality to validate computer simulation models. These new developments have generated a variety of new problems related to the engineering, manufacturing, and reliability of electronic products. See simulation models for the design and analysis of electronic products. Based on a 3 credit hour course. Topics cover: - design, simulation and analysis models for electronic circuits and systems - fundamentals of integrated circuits and system design, incl. Extended design and analysis of electronic circuits, and - standard models and techniques for semiconductor device reliability.

I want to include all pdf files in my wordpress theme. But pdf files are not rendered in template. Please help me to find solution. A: If you use the WP_FileSystem class, it will only check for files that are in the root directory. Example: `$the_file = file_get_contents(path_to_pdf_file); $the_file = str_replace(' ', '_', $the_file);`

include($the_file); or alternatively function my_file_get_contents($file) { return file_get_contents($file); } $the_file = my_file_get_contents(path_to_pdf_file); $the_file = str_replace(' ', '_', $the_file); include($the_file); If you want to make sure that your pdf files are being found and that they are correct, then you can use the following code: function get_file($file) { $file = str_replace(' ', '_', $file); $file = preg_replace('/[ ^a-zA-Z0-9_ ]/', '', $file); $file = strtolower($file); if (file_exists($file)) { return $file; } else { return false;
